The coronavirus does not pose any known risk to blood donors during the donation process or from attending blood drives.

Blood collection sites are regulated by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the entire blood banking community is uniting in urging people to donate blood and for organizations to keep hosting blood drives.

The FDA has reiterated that there have been no reported or suspected cases of transfusion-transmitted coronavirus and the virus poses no known risk to patients receiving blood transfusions.

All City of Hope hosted blood drives are social distancing collection sites and are not mass gatherings.
